

MUCH OPPOSITION TO WILSON BOOM

Rivals for Jersey Governorship Attack Record on Public Questions.

LEADERS CALL A MEETING

Princeton's President Ignores Invitation to It—Wittmann Calls Him Corporations' Candidate.

Trenton, N. J., July 25.—When the Mercer county Democrats meet for their annual outing here on Wednesday, which is always the day when they get together and see what the sentiment is for various candidates, it is not unlikely that President Woodrow Wilson will put in an appearance, under the guidance of Colonel George Harvey, his political sponsor, although the Democrats here are under the impression that the Princeton man is dodging.

An invitation to attend this outing was sent to President Wilson more than a week ago. It would bring him and his fellow-Democrats for the first time, and in his home county, too. Up to the present moment he has not acknowledged the invitation, and there is no word from him accordingly.

The opposition to Dr. Wilson which has developed here is considered formidable by well-informed Democrats. Figures known to be very near to the United States Senator James Smith, Jr., the New Jersey Democratic boss, have openly attacked Dr. Wilson as a foe to labor, as a friend of the plutocracy, and altogether a fanciful man and impracticable to rule as Governor of New Jersey.

This gathering of the Democrats here will have much significance, because Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., the Democratic standard-bearer of the last gubernatorial campaign, will be the principal guest, and his admirers here will endeavor to prove to the Democrats from other counties that there is nothing but antagonism to Dr. Wilson.

Senator George S. Silzer and Mayor Otto Wittmann, of Jersey City, will also be honored guests, and it is expected that all of the Democratic leaders throughout the State will be in attendance. Already some 5,000 tickets have been sold, and there will be 500 guests, comprising all of the leading Democrats of the State.

The Mercer Democrats, who insist that only the treachery of leaders in the northern part of the State robbed them of victory in the Katzenbach campaign, and who are declaring that Katzenbach is stronger now than he was when he ran before, intend making this a test outing to show that Katzenbach is the man for the nomination.

The Republican leaders take exception to any statements that the Wilson candidacy has made them lukewarm toward running Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic. It is said to be certain that Mr. Lewis will be the man to carry the Republican standard.

WITTMANN ASSAILS WILSON.

Backed by the Corporations, Says Jersey City Mayor—In Race to Stay. Asbury Park, N. J., July 25.—Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, is being named for Governor of New Jersey by the corporations, interests in the Democratic party, declared Mayor Otto Wittmann, of Jersey City, who is himself a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket. Mayor Wittmann came to the shore to spend Sunday, and at a beach-front hotel he gave some of his views of the political situation in the State.

"I am in this fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and I am in it to stay, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding," said Mr. Wittmann. "There is no question for these stories that I intend to pull out before the convention. Why, I'm going to the convention with 75 per cent of the delegates from Hudson County. There is no question that I'll get a full half of the delegates in Jersey City. Of course, I know my sticking in the race is distasteful to 'Boss' Davis, but I believe in the principles of the old-fashioned Democracy, and I want to see them carried out."

"Personally I regard Woodrow Wilson as a man of high character and good intention, but he has been brought forward by the part of the Democratic party that represents the corporations, and it is these interests he must represent if he is nominated and elected."

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison is the most powerful and destructive of all blood disorders. It corrupts and vitiates the entire circulation and manifests itself in the most hateful and loathsome symptoms, such as ulcerated parts of the body, copper-colored spots, and even sores and ulcers on different parts of the body. The poison causes the hair and eyebrows to fall out, and sometimes the finger nails come off and the entire glandular system is attacked. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison unless it is the S. S. S. is the real and certain cure; it goes into the blood and by removing every particle of the poison, and adding rich, healthy qualities to the circulation, forever cures this powerful disease. All who suffer with Contagious Blood Poison may cure themselves in the privacy of their own homes by using S. S. S., and following instructions contained in our Home Treatment Book, which we will send, together with any medical advice desired, free to all who write.

DISSENSION CAUSES PETERS TO RESIGN

Quartermaster-General of Army of Northern Virginia Quits Service—Bitter Criticism of Conditions Among Confederates.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Baltimore, Md., July 25.—Colonel Winfield Peters, a native of Virginia, and well known in Richmond, for the past decade quartermaster-general for the Army of Northern Virginia, United States Army, to-day resigned his official position in a statement explaining his action he makes an attack on the Confederates of Maryland, using strong and decisive language.

Rumor has had it strongly of late that there were serious misunderstandings between Colonel Peters and other officers of the Confederate Veterans. It is a recorded fact that interest in the organization in Maryland has greatly retrograded. The resignation of Colonel Peters has been accepted by Lieutenant-General Irvine C. Walker, Major-General Andrew C. Tripple, commanding officer of the Maryland division of the Confederate Veterans, said that he does not desire to comment on the resignation of Colonel Peters. General Tripple did make the following statement to-night: "The resignation has been accepted by General Walker, and meets with my approval and that of the representative Confederate veterans."

"As far as I know, there is no trouble in the ranks of the Maryland Division nor is this division decadent." It was rumored, however, in some quarters that Colonel Peters' resignation did not come of his own free will, but that it was requested, though neither he nor General Tripple would admit this.

Said Colonel Peters: "Because of my activities in Confederate connections during the past forty years I think it proper to state that my resignation was occasioned by my disinclination and inability to meet the conditions existing in the State of Maryland. 'An injustice has been done the position of quartermaster-general by lack of cohesion of the Confederates, and I say that there is altogether a lack of life among the Confederate veterans throughout the South.'"

"I was led to hand in my resignation to my superior officer because of internal dissension and the decadent conditions in the Maryland Division of the United Confederate Veterans. What these conditions are I am not at liberty to state, but my action was due to my desire to leave the hands of General Walker unhampered. I am acting merely for the good of the service, and if the truth were known it would be learned that I was not the aggressor, but rather the aggrieved party."

WARDEN DENIES WOMAN IS ALL FORMER OFFICER AWAITING TRIAL

One of Wardlaw Sisters, Charged With Killing Mrs. Snead, Busy on Defense. Clarence E. Landram the Man Who Is Prisoner in Castle Williams.

TRIAL COMES NEXT MONTH DESERTED AT FORT MONROE

Prosecution Said to Have Strong Evidence Against Relatives Accused of Bathub Murder. Once an Ensign in Navy, Now Doing Menial Duties.

New York, July 25.—Miss Virginia Wardlaw, one of the aunts held for complicity in the death of Okey Martin Snead, the girl of the East Orange bathtub tragedy, is not likely to die in prison before her trial on August 20, according to one of the wardens of the Essex county (N. J.) jail, in Newark, in which she and her sisters are confined.

This warden said last night that Miss Wardlaw, who, her own lawyers admit, has done more thinking about the case and less talking than either of her sisters, had never for a day lost interest in herself or the fight she is making for vindication. While she had never been inclined, he said, to take much exercise, she had never allowed a week to pass without as many consultations as possible with her lawyers. Last week, while the newspapers were printing a story given out by her friends that she was slowly wasting away and grieving herself to death, according to the warden she was employing the time allotted to the prisoners to exercise in the yard, and the evidence she could hold out for the defense of the three when the trial comes off next month. Her cell is an outside one, the warden said, and she had a fair-sized window, six feet by three feet, through which, even in the hot spells, she kept the cell at least endurable.

The other sisters, Mrs. Caroline Wardlaw Martin, mother of Okey Snead, and Mrs. Mary Wardlaw Snead, are on the same floor, and the mother of her runaway husband, Fletcher W. Snead, who was in Canada the last time he was heard from, occupy cells nearby, and the sisters are occasionally permitted to see each other. All three are now held on but one indictment—that charging them with the murder of Mrs. Snead. They were indicted also for complicity in a conspiracy to bring about the suicide of the girl, but at the request of Prosecutor Mott, of Essex county, this indictment was quashed.

The trial was set originally for early in April, but was continued until June on account of the illness of Police Sergeant O'Neill, of East Orange, who had conducted the investigation which led to the arrest of the three women and in consequence was a material witness for the prosecution. When June came the trial was again postponed, this time at the request of the lawyer for the prisoners, until August 20. An important witness for the defense, a woman relative, living near Christiansburg, in Southwest Virginia, had died suddenly. She had expected to testify to the strong affection which had existed between Mrs. Snead and Okey Snead and the solitude often manifested for the girl by Miss Wardlaw when the two were visiting in Christiansburg a few months before young Mrs. Snead's death.

The trial is expected to attract much attention, as the prosecution has never revealed its full strength. Prosecutor Mott, by prompt action in unexpected directions, has managed to keep a large number of material witnesses, both Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Snead, the mother-in-law of the dead girl. These are supposed to contain important evidence. The defense has sought repeat examinations of the prosecution, came by them fraudulently.

For twenty-four hours after Okey Snead's body was found in a bathtub in East Orange house on Monday afternoon, July 1, 1909, with a note beside her saying she had killed herself because her sufferings were greater than she could bear, few supposed that the case was destined to be so interesting in years.

It soon developed, however, that the girl had been insured for $32,000, and that the circumstances of her death were suspicious. In addition, it soon became known that the accused women belonged to the same Southern family, and that Mrs. Martin had for years been a public school principal here.

FORMER OFFICER AWAITING TRIAL

Clarence E. Landram the Man Who Is Prisoner in Castle Williams.

DESERTED AT FORT MONROE

Once an Ensign in Navy, Now Doing Menial Duties.

New York, July 25.—The identity of the former naval officer who is held at Castle Williams on Governor's Island to await trial on charges of desertion from the army, in which he had enlisted as a private after resigning from the navy, was disclosed today by officers of the Department of the East. He is Clarence E. Landram, of Kentucky, once an ensign in the navy.

The records, as available to-day, show that Landram disappeared from Fort Monroe last March, and surrendered at a Brooklyn recruiting station the following April. When news of his plight got out quietly among his friends in Louisville and Washington, representations were made to the War Department that his erratic actions would tend to show he was not responsible. Accordingly, a medical board was appointed June 20 to investigate the case. The board convened on July 5, and is still sitting. Its findings will be sent to Washington and made public there.

In the meantime, Landram, a prisoner, does the menial duties of a prisoner, under the surveillance of an armed guard, and wears a "P" on his clothes, although it was denied to-day that he wears the "P" of a prisoner, and attempted to escape and has been captured.

He has not proved a tractable prisoner, according to the officer in charge, but it was denied that it had been found necessary to assign him to solitary confinement.

Lieutenant on Trial.

Newport, R. I., July 25.—A general court-martial convened here to-day to try Lieutenant Gratton A. Beal, Jr., of the 1st Cavalry, on charges of sleeping on duty and leaving his station without being relieved. On request of Lieutenant Beal, the court will adjourn until to-morrow, when the defendant's counsel is expected to appear. Captain Ray Smith, of the United States Army, is president of the court.

PROFIT ON GOAT RAISING

California Rancher Reaches Washington Behind Pair of Angoras. Washington, D. C., July 25.—After having traveled across the continent from San Diego, Cal., behind a pair of Angora goats, Captain V. Edwards, owner of a ranch in California, called to-day upon the goat expert of the Department of Agriculture to receive a grant of a small sum of money, incidentally to show his pride in the industry.

Surrounded by an interested group of spectators, as he sat in his little wagon, he had a long talk with L. F. Shaw, of the division of the local industry, to whom he expressed his conviction that the raising of Angora goats is to be one of the most profitable forms of future farming in this country.

Election of Officers Continues.

Cleveland, O., July 25.—The election of officers again occupied the attention of the delegates to the convention of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association at today's sessions. Miss Francis E. McGee, of Scranton, Pa., was elected second supreme vice-president by the largest vote yet cast in the convention. Mrs. A. J. Royer, of Erie, Pa., was elected supreme recorder by acclamation.

candidate under any circumstances, and is still working for support for the nomination for Governor of State.

Must Be a Liberal.

The general sentiment that the gubernatorial nominee must be a liberal on the liquor question puts a damper on Mooney, as he voted and worked hard for the passage of the local liquor bill. Neither Wade H. Ellis nor Arthur Vorys is a delegate, but men who are close to them are doing most of the Longworth talking. The name of Roosevelt is worked hard by them.

Harding is not without supporters, but it is difficult to see where he can gain added strength after the conference opens. He holds the power to dictate the nomination, if he can throw the votes which he will contribute to either Harding or Thompson, he could probably nominate either. At this time it looks as though Harding would be his second choice. Cox, however, is not without supporters, and he will be nominated on the second ballot. He repeated to-day with great emphasis that he would stick to Brown.
